Force Protection Implementation

To continue improving our community security and counter-terrorism efforts, the 6th Area Support Group is working closely with its tenant units and the USAREUR Force Protection Office to develop a revised implementation plan to execute force protection measures at Robinson Barracks and the Boeblingen housing area.

On Dec. 3, static posts at RB and Panzer were replaced with roving military police patrols (vehicles) and host nation assets performing random security checks. This initiative significantly improves command and control, mobility and military force integration on the ground and decreases predictability, while reducing the burden on our tenant units.

However, force protection is a community effort and we still need your support in ensuring that all suspicious personnel, vehicles and packages are reported to the military police. The 6th ASG Force Protection Office would like to thank everyone for their assistance in supporting the area's force protection mission.

Good News for Car Owners

Restrictions against shipping a foreign privately owned vehicle at government expense ended Nov. 18. There is no longer any requirement to submit requests for an exception to policy for shipping an FPOV. Subject to shipping authorization on official orders, FPOVs must meet American safety and environmental standards and not exceed 20 measurement tons. Those over this weight requirement must pay the excess cost. For further information contact the ITO Outbound section, 07031-15-814 or Transcar, 07031-15-617.

Space "A" Travel Upgrade for Family

The Office of the Secretary of Defense has approved an exception to policy regarding space available travel. United States European Command family members have been authorized to fly Category 3 status on one round-trip flight, when traveling without a sponsor, per 120 day or more deployment of the sponsor. Normal space available flights for such family members was Category 5. The Exception is subject to the following conditions: is only valid for family members of USEUCOM service members; only applicable as outlined above and only when traveling within USEUCOM or to and from the continental U.S. to the USEUCOM area of responsibility; and all travel will be on a noninterference (non-reimbursable) basis.

Helpful Hints for Holiday Packaging

Due to the current threat condition, postal employees are closely examining packages being presented for mailing, and you can help them help you by ensuring your customs forms are completed correctly and all items contained in your package are listed properly.

If you prefer not to list the contents on the outside of the package, you may enclose a customs form (large white form, copies 1, 2, and 3) inside the package and affix only the upper portion of a PS Form 2976 (small green form) to the outside of the package. Copy 4 of the PS Form 2976-A remains with the APO postal customer service employee at the time of mailing.

Plus, be sure to remove any batteries from any battery-operated items prior to mailing. There have been instances where packages had to be destroyed by bomb disposal personnel because of suspicious hissing or buzzing sounds emitting from packages.

If you have five or more packages to mail, you may make an appointment. Customs forms, wrapping paper and tape are available APOs to take with you to prepare packages at home. For details call 0711-729-4149.
